

MISS BENNETT ON SURVEY BOARD

Governor Chooses Richmond Woman For Aid In Valuable Work To Be Done In State

The appointment by Governor Morrow of Miss Belle Bennett, of Richmond, as a member of the State Educational Survey Board is news that reached Richmond Thursday and news that brought a shower of congratulations upon Miss Bennett. Her record here has demonstrated that she is possessed of remarkable ability, and her unusual capabilities are recognized by those who have had cause to come in contact with her work. Both in college and church work, the results of her efforts are apparent. The appointment admits of an extension of the excellent and effective work of Miss Bennett, if it can be extended. She will endeavor to add to her duties as much as possible, and it is safe to say that her services on the board will result in none but creditable and successful decisions. Miss Bennett needs no introduction here nor elsewhere in the state regarding her ability and willingness to work both in the interest of charity, religion and education. Her experience along broad lines renders her service very valuable.

The board will be composed of the following: Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Center College; C. J. Hayden, president of the Springfield Board of Education; Alex. Barret, Louisville; Mr. J. L. Harmon, Bowling Green, and Miss Belle Bennett, Richmond. The board will direct survey of all public educational institutions as well as rural and city schools. It is probable that the general education board will furnish experts at no cost to the state except actual expenses. Mr. Hayden and Mr. Harmon are Democrats. Mr. Hayden has been president of the Springfield board for 15 years, was chairman of the draft board and is head of the county farm bureau. Mr. Barret is a member of the Louisville Board of Education. Mr. Harmon is vice president of the Bowling Green Business College and Miss Bennett is head of the Sue Bennett Memorial School.

Dr. Ganfield, when informed that Superintendent Colvin wanted him on the survey, left entirely to the Superintendent and Governor to determine where they performed him to work. "The compensation on both boards is the same," Dr. Ganfield remarked dryly. "The educational work or course, is more in my line; but I have become interested in the work of the Board of Charities and Corrections, having had some hand in legislative plans, and I would like to see how it through. They are both important and I wish to serve where my services will count for most under the circumstances."

Surveyor will be at work on the 94 acres of land Tuesday, April 27, on the Big Hill pike. Go out and see how the land is being divided. It will be sold at auction on May 4.

FARMERS RUSH FIELD WORK NOW

Favorable Weather Brings About Unusual Activity To Catch Up With Spring Work

With the advent of favorable weather, farmers of Madison county, who have been delayed in their work, represent an army of busy men. Frank Rousch, residing south of the city, was an early visitor in Richmond today and he summed up the situation as follows: "Every man, boy and horse available, are now in the field and the ground is being turned over as rapidly as possible. The recent weather, in some sections of this as well as other counties, has held the work back, and it is now high time the farmers were getting ready to place the crops. With a week of nice weather, there will be an abundance of work done in the country and there will be a great showing made. Mr. Rousch stated that there was an unusually large acreage to represent to-bacco this year, despite the intimidation that this produce would not bring such fancy prices next fall. "There is no excuse for a farmer to be in town today," said Mr. Rousch, "unless the trip is necessary as mine was, for I had to get supplies for both the house and field, but I am hurrying home now in order not to leave any more time than possible."

HISLE "SWAPS" MILL FOR FINE FARM

His place was damaged somewhat but he suffered no injuries. Two of the negroes on his plantation had their cabins blown away and were injured but not seriously, according to a letter which his father received Thursday. Many lives lost but none on my place. Tore up grove badly. Have written you particulars. Don't worry. Everything all right."

TRUCKS GIVE GOOD HAULING TEST

After lunching in town about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon the Lexington truck tourists gave a very successful demonstration of the uses to which pneumatic tired trucks can be put on the farm. They went out to the home of Mr. Charles Jett on the Big Hill pike, and took two tons of logs to Bearwallow, and were back in three hours, with a load of lumber. The time consumed represents time in loading and unloading. In the test some very bad dirt roads were traversed, as the heavy rains of the past few days had made the roads almost impassable.

Mr. Jett was greatly pleased with the result of the test. He said that the men in charge of the trucks demonstrated what can really be done with them.

The trucks then went on the Berea, where some of them were kept over night, returning thru Richmond Thursday morning.

RICHMOND LURES MANY FROM CITIES

Nine Out Of Ten Decide To Stay and They Give Their Reasons For It

While it may not be characteristic of other towns in Kentucky about seven out of every eight newcomers, are from cities, and, once here, they seem to become "anchored". There is a steady influx of representatives of all trades coming to Richmond, and out of five who have come here and to work and were interviewed, none has signified his intention of leaving, although some of them are expert mechanics and doing more arduous work out side of their trade. Their own opinions of why they selected Richmond, leaving the bright lights of the cities, can best be told by themselves, when they explain their own personal reasons, for readers of the Daily Register.

Frank Houser, decorator—"I came here a few days ago, just to look around. I came from Detroit. I am going on a farm and help raise tobacco. I have had more fresh air since I came here than I had in Detroit buildings where I was shut up, in a year's time. Think of it—me working on a farm! But I believe I will like it, and I have saved money and may be a little landowner here some day myself. I also have a place for my brother and I know that he will not lose any time coming when he gets that letter of mine". Young Houser, who received about $7.50 per day at work in Detroit, said that he would have more money at the end of a season here at half that amount of wages, than he could have saved in the city, and be "out in the open". He will go to the farm of Richard Bentley, in the eastern part of Madison county. "And, say," he asked confidently—"Do you suppose I will be lucky enough to hit close to one of those famous fishing streams I have heard so much about?"

Charles Shaftner, mechanic—"I came to Richmond several weeks ago and thought that one week would let me out. I am still here and expect to move my family here. I am getting more wages than the mechanics in Cincinnati, and can breathe fresh ozone all day long. Me for Richmond."

John L. Bakewell, painter—"I have been busy ever since I hit the place, and one who has plenty of work here, I think, would rather be here than in any of the cities and I have been in many of them. I expect to stay in here in Richmond."

Wellston Richey, laborer—"Say, I have a job and it is most too much for me, but I will stick until this work is finished, when I will go to work at another job which has been promised me. I wish these folks, who are so kind every other way, would build me a nice house, and I would lose no time in getting my family here."

James Harrington, machinist—"Say, I can get much more money in the city at my trade than here doing what I am now, but you live in a place like this, and that counts for much. The town just suits me and the only way they can make me get out is to cut off my work, which, I think is very improbable."

CALL FOR SUSPECT CHECK MADE THURSDAY

A young man who issued a suspected check on A. Dobrowsky a few days ago was in the city again Thursday and called for the check, upon which payment was refused. He has not called for it yet however. Mr. Dobrowsky is of the belief that the fellow is making an effort to reclaim the check with the view of destroying it.
